

Application Guidelines for the Student Exchange Program 2019/20

We are happy to announce that we have set renewed guidelines for student exchange programs in 2019/20.

If any students at NWU's partner universities wish to study at Nara Women's University for 6 months or 1 year in the period from April 2019 to March 2020, please send the necessary documents to the International Students Section of NWU following these guidelines. Based on our exchange agreements, we will accept a maximum of three students in a semester.

Nara Women's University exists to provide female students with the highest learning environment, and our main purpose has been to foster women who can succeed in society through education and research. Therefore, our regular students are all female and most of the exchange students are female as well.

If there are male students who still would like to take our classes and receive credits, or do research with a specific teacher at our university, understanding our purpose and the environment, please let us know before applying for the program.

In addition to that, please be notified that we might not be able to accept a student depending on his/her major or when he/she would like to start studying.

Please make sure that the documents are clearly typed or written in black ink. The application forms are also available on the following website:

Japanese: http://www.nara-wu.ac.jp/iec/int/ja/study/foreign_exchange/index.html
English: http://www.nara-wu.ac.jp/iec/int/en/study/foreign_exchange/index.html

Additional Information on Studying at NWU

● Health Insurance

1. National Health Insurance

International students those who have student status are required to join the National Health Insurance program while they are in Japan. By this insurance, the policy holders will only have to bear 30% of the expenses required for medical treatments.

2. Personal Accident Insurance for Students Pursuing Education and Research etc.

All exchange students who study at NWU must purchase insurances called Gakkensai and Gakkenbai, which cover expenses for various accidents that may occur during the school activities and in daily life. The premiums in total are about 5,000 yen per year.

● Costs

1. School expenses (Entrance examination fee, Admission fee and Tuition)

Exchange students from our partner universities are exempted from the entrance examination fee, admission fee and tuition.

2. Food (as a guideline only)

About 20,000 yen~30,000 yen/month

3. Commodities (as a guideline only)

About 20,000 yen/month
